

Extended Enterprise Training

Extended Enterprise Training (Customer / Partner / Channel Training)

Growing globalization and competition have led to the rise in the number of partner programs, distributor networks, franchises, and contractors, just to list a few. Due to this, the value of external training initiatives such as channel training to partners and distributors has increased.

Extended Enterprise Training programs allow the primary enterprise to control consistency and quality of training across all channels, extending the benefits to the whole value chain.

The delivery of training, licensing and certification programs to external channels increases partner, customer and end-user satisfaction and product usage. It brings all external employees to the same level of competency and product knowledge as their internal employees, as well as optimizing support and reducing costs to the primary enterprise.

Extended Enterprise Training also generates additional revenue because the primary enterprise itself can sell training and convert an existing cost center into a revenue channel.
